

Press the print button on your browser.
Click here to return to the previous page.

E-8.03 Conflicts of Interest: Guidelines

Under no circumstances may physicians place their own financial interests above the welfare of their patients. The primary objective of the medical profession is to render service to humanity; reward or financial gain is a subordinate consideration. For a physician to unnecessarily hospitalize a patient, prescribe a drug, or conduct diagnostic tests for the physician's financial benefit is unethical. If a conflict develops between the physician's financial interest and the physician's responsibilities to the patient, the conflict must be resolved to the patient's benefit. (II)

Issued July 1986; Updated June 1994.

Last updated: Jun 17, 2005
Content provided by: Ethics

Privacy Statement | Advertise with us
Copyright 1995-2005 American Medical Association. All rights reserved.